CONTEST

Between Johnson and Garber Will Be Strenuous in Eighteenth District

PARTISANS LINING UP

Youngstown, March 4.—With two candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor the 18th district is certain to be one of the hardest contested districts in the state in the fight for control between Tom L. Johnson and Harvey Garber. Johnson wants to be re-elected national committeeman and Garber wants to succeed him. The election is to be made by the Ohio delegation to the Democratic national convention of which the 18th district has two members who will be elected at the district congressional convention. The fight for control will be made in electing county delegates to the latter convention and may result in red hot Democratic primaries in Mahoning county.

If primaries are held they will likely take place before the state convention in May and state as well as district delegates will be elected. The situation is complicated by the fact that Johnson is backing Atlee Pomeroy, of Canton, for the governorship, while Garber is behind the boom of John C. Welty, also of Canton. Johnson is by far the more popular man of the two with Mahoning county Democrats and under ordinary circumstances would receive the support of the county. Garber, however, may add to his strength by espousing the cause of Welty who is the better known and stronger of the two gubernatorial candidates in Mahoning county. Welty also has the backing of former Mayor E. H. Moore, who controls the destinies of Democracy in Mahoning county.

The district convention will probably be held in Youngstown this year and if the fight is carried out the convention floor instead of being disposed of by primary some warm times can be anticipated. Chairman Diehl, of Alliance, of the Democratic congressional committee has called no meeting as yet of the committee. The county committee has made no arrangements for a county primary or convention but action will likely be taken by both sides within a few weeks. A second convention will probably be held to nominate a county ticket.
